Multiplayer gaming in D.C.

The entire Duke It Out In D.C. episode is both Cooperative play and DukeMatch ready. But a word of caution: many of the maps are very large and memory intensive! If you plan on playing multi-player, you will need a relatively fast computer!

Go through the normal Duke Net Startup program to get to your Duke It Out In D.C. levels. The maps are in the Duke In DC folder in your Duke Nukem 3D folder, and are named DUKEDC1.MAP - DUKEDC9.MAP. Each player must have Duke It Out In D.C. installed on their computer.

Duke's Story in D.C. - Mission Briefing

After an alien ship crash-landed at the Capitol Building, aliens began a vicious assault destroying critical government buildings, invading national monuments and taking over key military installations. The Aliens even managed to destroy our secret government tunnel system - bringing our government to a standstill.

Arriving in D.C., Duke is dropped off on the front lawn of the White House to begin his search for the President.

Quick note: We have included an ending animation which will play when you complete the entire Duke It Out In D.C. episode. When this new animation starts, don't press any keys or you will skip right past the exciting conclusion!

Level 1 - Hell to the Chief

This level puts you smack dab in our nation's center of power - the White House. Here's your chance to see the Oval Office up close. However, you may be distracted by some unwanted tour groups.

Level 2 - Memorial Service

Honest Abe never had it so bad... The Aliens have shown up in force at the Lincoln Memorial, but Duke arrives with his own brand of protest!

Level 3 - Nuked Files

If the truth is out there, there is no better place to find it than at the FBI building. Duke begins his own investigation into the aliens, with pipebomb in hand.

Level 4 - Smithsonian Terror

Duke arrives at the Smithsonian and begins his search of this massive museum. Duke wants to turn the aliens into a permanent exhibit on endangered species.

Level 5 - Capitol Punishment

An alien ship has crash landed into the Capitol Building where aliens have taken over both the House and Senate. Duke decides to impose his own form of term limits - at the end of a shotgun!

Level 6 - Metro Mayhem

The DC Metro System, once a showcase of safe and efficient travel, is now a deathtrap where the aliens entertain themselves by running over hapless commuters. It's time for Duke to send them to their final destination!

Level 7 - Brown Water

Duke finds that the D.C. sewer system is a common hang-out for alien scum. The sewage system may soon overflow from all the alien waste Duke is about to flush through it.

Level 8 - Dread October

The most advanced nuclear submarine in the U.S. Navy has a new alien admiral. Duke shows up to institute a change in command.

Level 9 - Nuke Proof

Our nation's most secure command bunker now serves as the central command center for the worldwide alien invasion force. It is impenetrable to any kind of Nuke attack, unless your name's Duke Nukem!

Secret Level - TOP SECRET

It's time for Duke to expose the top secret items our government's been hiding all these years, before the aliens get their slimy hands on them.
